

Monday December 3
6pm (for a 6.10pm start) - 7.30pm
Ground Floor Function Room
Flinders Centre for Innovation in Cancer
Flinders Medical Centre Campus (see attached map).

Against the grain - Should GPs play a role in cancer care?

Presented by
Professor Kevin Oeffinger
Duke University, USA

Patients with cancer have other health problems that should not be neglected during and after their cancer care. Kevin's talk will highlight current problems in the U.S. system around cancer screening, managing comorbidities, risk-stratified survivorship care, and what is being done to change outcomes in these three areas.

Professor Kevin Oeffinger

Prof Oeffinger is a family physician/GP, the founding Director of the Duke Center for Onco-Primary Care, and Director of the Supportive Care and Survivorship Center at Duke Cancer Institute. His research interests are in cancer screening and survivorship.

Prof Oeffinger's visit is supported by the SALHN Office for Research and funded by the FMC Volunteers.

RSVP to Michelle Cox on 8404 2842 or email michelle.cox@flinders.edu.au